Background

Stuart graduated with a degree in law (LLB Honours) from Trinity College, Dublin in 2007 and subsequently trained with a top tier corporate firm in Dublin, qualifying as a solicitor in 2011. He relocated to Northern Ireland in 2013, and joined Carson McDowell in November of that year.

Stuart is qualified to practice as a solicitor in both Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland. As part of the firm's Corporate Department, he advises on merger & acquisitions, corporate restructurings, commercial contracts and corporate governance issues across a variety of business sectors.

Significant recent experience includes advising:

- A listed infrastructure services group on the disposal of interests in two PFI projects with a combined value of £38 million.
- A leading UK FMCG group on the acquisition of the business and assets of a sauce manufacturing business.
- A regional airport on numerous commercial agreements.
- A professional English football club on its corporate restructuring.
- A global bank on a corporate restructuring involving a licensed Irish credit institution.
- A NASDAQ listed Irish domiciled plc on various corporate governance issues.
